

Old computer equipment being collected in Cumberland

CUMBERLAND — If you have an old computer, printer, monitor or other similar equipment piled in some corner of your garage, tomorrow you have someplace to take it.

From 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., old computer equipment can be dropped off for recycling at the Green-Tech Assets Warehouse at 30 Meeting St., off Route 114 near Cumberland Town Hall. The program is part of the Great American Clean-Up campaign.

Items that can be dropped off for free include: central processing units/computers, keyboards, spare computer parts, monitors, laptops, network equipment, computer mice, printers, routers, radios, scanners, fax machines, car stereos, cables, wires, aluminum, copper, cell phones, and telephones.

Things that will be accepted but disposal fees will be charged are: $8 for old television sets; $15 for televisions in wood casings; $20 for intact air conditioners; $8 for batteries and toner cartridges. Coupons for free items or discounts at Dunkin' Donuts, McDonald's and Ronzio's pizza will be given to those who donate a dollar
